WE NOMINATE

David McWilliams Ludlum, a weatherman's weatherman and one of the country's most respected consultants in the field of meteorology, who has undertaken an assignment that highway and traffic authorities everywhere are watching with deep interest. Now headquartered in Princeton, where he directs a remarkable firm known as Science Associates and edits Weatherwise, the bimonthly magazine of the American Meteorological Society, this 45-year old native New Jerseyan is helping Connecticut's Highway Department install a unique weather-forecasting system on which all of the State's traffic control plans will be keyed. The pioneering venture under Ludlum's guidance, according to one observer, could well be the most important single step taken in recent years towards checking the ever-rising curve of highway accidents.

Ever since his early 'teens, when he set up barometers and thermometers in his backyard and became the weather prophet in his East Orange neighborhood, Ludlum has been engrossed with meteorology. He "majored" in History at Princeton with the Class of 1933, took advanced degrees in History at both Princeton and the University of California, but as a teacher at the nearby Peddie School before World War II attracted as much student attention with the operation of a small weather station as he did with his lectures in history. Upon volunteering for Army duty long before Pearl Harbor, he mentioned his lifelong hobby and embarked upon the training program that resulted in his commissioning as a "weather officer."

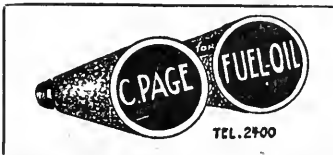

During World War II, that brought advancement to the rank of major, eight battle stars and the Bronze Star Medal, Ludlum served in Tunisia, Sicily, Italy,

France and Germany, briefing commanding generals on weather situations. The link between successful military operations and the weather has never been more dramatically demonstrated than it was in the smashing aerial assault on Cassino, Italy, in March, 1944. Day after day the generals had been planning the attack, with hundreds of bomber crews on the alert. But day after day Ludlum, displeased by what his data showed, vetoed the plans. Finally, on March 15th, the captain gave the generals the word. The obliteration of Cassino moved ahead on schedule and the assault passed into history as "Operation Ludlum."

Ludlum, following the end of the war, turned his full attention to science. Combining consulting with his duties at the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, he founded Science Associates in 1946 to provide a much-needed single source of meteorological instruments and equipment and professional consultation in the practice, study and teaching of meteorology. Through "S.A.," now filling the same needs in astronomy and the earth sciences as it does in meteorology, it is possible to obtain almost anything conceivable in the instrument line, including Geiger Counters ranging from the "Sourdough" at $35.00 to the "Super Fission Finder," tagged at about $860. Weatherwise, the magazine Ludlum established in 1947, continues to thrive and currently lists subscribers in every nation in the world.

For broadening our understanding of how weather phenomena can be most effectively diagnosed; for taking up where the government's weather services leave off and interpreting weather data for special needs; for playing a key role in a relatively new profession that is now big business; he is our nominee for

SUMMER VIOLENCE

Deaths by Fire and Auto. Usually a time of peace and quiet in Princeton, summer made its bow this past week accompanied by a series of unusually violent happenings. In the span of six days, the community recorded four deaths in an arsonist's fire, one by suicide, two fatalities in as many terrible auto crashes and one near-death by drowning.

The center of attention during summer's early period of violence was Tenacre Foundation on The Great Road, a secluded sanitarium that rarely asks for police assistance and never (until now) makes much news. Early Friday morning, however, while its manager was busy phoning the Township police to request investigation of a suicide, the foundation roared into headlines by way of a blaze, set by a new arrival, that killed four female patients (for details, see story on page 4).

As a result of the tragic fire, the State Bureau of Inspections reported it planned a full investigation this week. Spencer Smith, head of the bureau, said—prior to the investigation—that "generally Tenacre has been doing good work." He noted that the living quarters razed by the fire "happened to be a building that was about to be replaced," but rendered an opinion that "there would have been great smoke hazard even in a fireproof building."

Mr. Smith, answering Town Topics' questions without benefit of any investigative work at Tenacre, indicated that he felt the incident was "one of those things we learn from." If advisable, he stressed, there will be a complete review of the circumstances surrounding Friday's troubles, with a hope that the lesson will teach similar institutions how to avoid such tragedies.

Both Princeton area highway victims died Saturday, one from injuries suffered in a head-on collision two days earlier and the other in a sudden-death crack-up which resulted in cremation on the spot and a difficult case of identification for police officers. The two accidents pushed Princeton tragically close to a fatality record, with less than half of 1956 in the books, and helped keep New Jersey's auto death rate ahead of last year's grim figure. (For details of the crashes, see below).

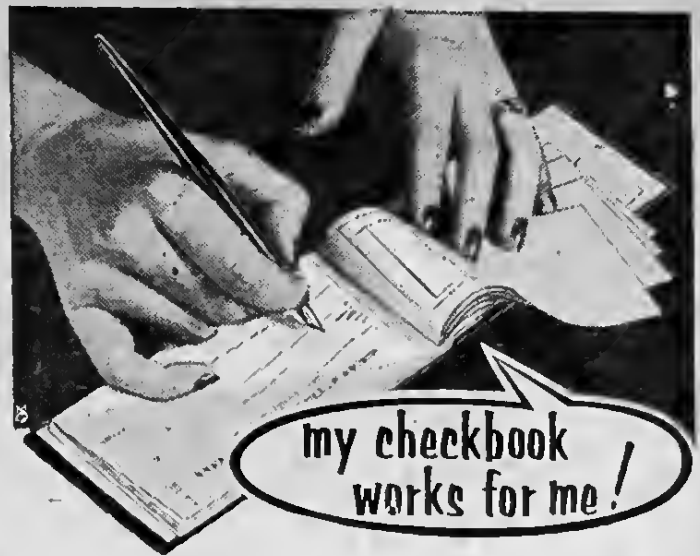

The near-drowning incident, which brought back memories of last Summer's three-death tragedy at Lake Carnegie, involved a pretty 21-year-old girl, a private pool and an inspirational half-hour of endeavor by quick-thinking citizens (see story, page 8). By coincidence, the Lions Club picked Tuesday, the day of the near-drowning, to present a check for $921.20 to the Rescue Squad of the First Aid Unit—a gift from the community with which the rescue volunteers will purchase a 14-foot boat, complete with motor, life jackets and life lines, and a trailer for transporting the craft.

Traffic Toll Mounts. The Princeton area, apparently on its way to an unenviable 1956 traffic record, tallied highway fatalities eight and nine during the past week as a result of two violently spectacular auto accidents. One occurred Thursday afternoon in Princeton Township on Princeton Pike, near Stony Brook Bridge, and the other took place Saturday evening on Lawrenceville Road (Route 206) in Lawrence Township.

Killed in the two accidents were Kurt Eichler, 62, a Flushing, N. Y., visitor whose windpipe was fractured when it struck the dashboard of his son's car, and Edward Streeter, 29, a Lawrence Township bartender who was cremated after his new sedan struck another auto, sheared off a utility pole, overturned and exploded in gasoline-fed flames. Mr. Eichler survived until Saturday, then died of asphyxiation in an oxygen tent at Princeton Hospital.

Mr. Eichler was a passenger in the Mercedes Benz of his son, Frank, also of Flushing, when it crashed head-on into a 1950 Oldsmobile, driven by a A. Cyrus Warner, 98 Olden Avenue. The younger Eichler and Mr. Warner were shaken up by the terrific impact, but not sufficiently to require hospitalization. Township officers reported that the victim in the Elchler vehicle was wearing a safety belt at the time of the tragedy, though not tightly enough to keep him from sliding, and striking the dash. As required by law, the facts of the case will be presented to the Grand Jury so that it can decide whether Mr. Warner should be charged with death by auto.

In the fiery collision that took Mr. Streeter's life, two persons in the second car, Donald Clark and his wife, Mary, of 272 Witherspoon Street, were injured. Mrs. Clark was admitted at St. Francis Hospital, where she was reported in "good condition" with no broken bones on Tuesday, and her husband was released after emergency treatment. Lawrence Township Patrolman Nicholas Loveless and an unidentified passer-by were credited with saving the life of Gerald Hutchinson of Trenton, a passenger in Mr. Streeter's auto, as they pulled him from the flaming wreckage just in time.

According to investigators, Mr. Streeter was driving south, a short distance above Carter Road, when he skidded more than 150 feet on a curve, then struck the Clarks' car before hitting the utility pole and catching fire. His death, along with Mr. Elchler's death and four other week end fatalities, raised Mercer County's total for the year to 27—an unenviable second highest among the state's counties and 11 deaths ahead of this time in 1955.

AROUND TOWN

Early Odds Favor Horses. Sitting in Freehold, where he won't sit again until fall, Mercer County Judge J. Thomas Schettino conducted a preliminary hearing last Friday to consider a temporary injunction granted the Princeton Riding Club in its neighborhood squabble with new residents of the area south of the Bayard Lane stables. The judge issued several rulings during a 30-minute session, then continued a formal hearing on the subject until October.

As a result, horses from the club will be permitted to use the controversial 50-foot right-of-way, which once bore the old Johnson trolley, as a bridge path at least until further developments. However, the club's members must take out liability insurance covering personal and property damage in the area, must erect fences between the path and two area homes and must post a bond pending future court action.

Despite these impositions, early odds seemed to favor the horses. Homeowners in the area were not so sure this week, however, as they figured in the long run they would be able to prove the right-of-way is not a club inheritance and thus protect the sanctity of their homes as well as the safety of their children.

Park Hearing Set. The minor changes necessary in the ordinance to facilitate creation of Research Park resulted in re-introduction of the measure at a special Township Committee meeting Tuesday. A second public hearing on the proposal to establish the 66-acre tract north of the Shopping Center is now set for July 9.

Problems that loom for September on school pedestrian traffic were considered by committee members and referred to Police Chief James Campbell. The areas around both Valley Road and new Littlebrook will be studied for proper precautionary measures.

PERSONALITIES

Jackson Martindell, resident of 125 Library Place and president of the American Institute of Management, has apparently won his bid to insure that AIM will take over 67% plus control of the famous publication "Who's Who". AIM had its option upheld by courts and will take over by offering $285,000 for the needed stock and debentures at once. Mr. Martindell said he planned that the non-profit publication would be permanently dedicated to public service by placing it under the trusteeship of at least 20 distinguished Americans from all walks of life.

Dr. Susan Taubes, 301 Nassau Street, has received a $3,000 fellowship for study in France as one of 49 outstanding women scholars honored by the American Association of University Women. Dr. Taubes' husband is an assistant professor at Princeton.

John Lapsley of Arretton Road, who has been accorded the unusual honor of twice being elected captain of the Harvard crew. (See picture and story, page 16.)

ROUNDUP

No one knows when all of Princeton's "stop" signs will be painted red and white, an eye-catching combination that induces more safety than the old yellow and black letters, but it won't be long. Governor Meyner inked a bill Monday making the new color scheme mandatory for municipalities. The office of the Clerks of the Borough and Township will shift to summer hours next Monday, operating from 9 to 4 weekdays, except Saturday, until after Labor Day. Department of Interesting Questions: Fellow stopped in to ask the following: Is there a need for relaxation and hypnosis in Princeton?

In response to a get-well message sent to President Eisenhower, Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, received an embossed reply from Ike: "Both Mrs. Eisenhower and I deeply appreciate the good wishes you sent for my early recovery." Comes now a report that the Hospital Fete raised over $10,000 at its June 2 frolic, a record collection despite strictly anti-Fete weather. Restaurant Allen

HIS NUMBERS UP: Merzie Lee, a $52-per-week truckloader for a Metuchen platter plant, points to the number that marks his home—sweet-home on Clay Street in Princeton. He and the five other members of his family living in the Hageman dwelling face eviction this Saturday. But Mr. Lee is in a real quandary because he cannot find another solid roof under which to put his clan. For the story of the Lees' and Princeton's important housing problem, see Topics of the Town. (Richards Photo)

Topics of the Town

Family Faces Eviction. Princeton's urgent need for more and better housing accommodations, particularly in the north side's so-called "blighted" area, was underscored this week by the plight of Merzie Lee and his highly respected family. The Lees, who occupy an attractive low-income dwelling at 74 Clay Street, in the John F. Hageman Homes project, must move out of their house by Saturday or face eviction proceedings.

Explaining his dilemma, Mr. Lee readily admitted he is no longer eligible for residency in the Hageman development, but said it was impossible to find satisfactory quarters for his family anywhere else in Princeton.

Moreover, he stressed, a survey of all available dwellings in surrounding communities has failed to produce the calibre of home or environment that he wants for his family.

The Borough Housing Authority notified Mr. Lee more than three months ago that he had to leave his Clay Street home by June 30 because his family's annual income now exceeds the maximum for people living in the low-income housing project. Since then, he has read newspaper want ads and searched from Trenton to New Brunswick for a decent substitute, with no results.

Bruce H. French, executive director of the Housing Authority, confirmed the fact that the Lees are "very much over" the maximum income figure for a family of their size in a three-bedroom Hageman home. Under the Authority's regulations, he said, it can't do anything but evict the Lees if they fail to vacate the premises by Saturday.

Hits Racial Discrimination. Mr. Lee reviewed his particular case by way of emphasizing a crisis being shared by others in similar circumstances. In so doing, he reiterated the fact that his family didn't mind moving, except that it could find no place to go and, significantly, it resented the racial discrimination obstacles that made house-hunting ex-

T. Chang, erecting a gift shop at 15 Witherspoon Street, has discovered that the site's ancient building is older than some of his Oriental lieutenants.

The Borough's timetable for the new Harrison Street firehouse calls for work to commence on August 21 and wind up by May 1. . . . And the Borough's municipal wading pool on John and Pine Streets, always well-occupied by pleasure-seeking youngsters, are being enlarged for the first time since the WPA installed them back in the mid-1930s. . . . Special lapel pins in recognition of 50 years' service — first golden anniversary awards ever given — were handed to eight staid Princeton firefighters at last Friday's annual inspection. . . . Recipients were James L. Briner Jr., John H. Cray, Wilbur F. Kerr Sr., and Russell H. Smith of Hook & Ladder, Edward J. Foley and Michael McKay of No. 3, and

Ernest F. Drake and Joseph S. Hoff of No. 3. Everybody's happy at the Institute for Advanced Study, now that the matter of new buildings interfering with old sewer lines has been resolved. . . . The Institute will install new subsidiary lines to circumvent its construction and avoid possible future plumbing problems. . . . Those seemingly ambitious youths, who advertised as rat-catchers, et al, several weeks ago, said "No" when it came to a job involving 50-plus rodents in a single basement. . . . And they decided against baby-sitting as one of their many services after receiving a frantic call from a mother looking for a sitter with a past record of numps to watch her mumps-ridden youngsters.

tremely difficult (for another viewpoint on the same subject, see Mailbox, page 15)
The Lees took possession of the accommodations at 74 Clay on March 1, 1953, when Mr. Lee was earning less than $3,500 annually and his rent was $34.50 per month. They were (and still are) six in number, including Maria Lee, a totally dependent daughter, two other daughters (then in high school) and a grandson.

As time progressed, Mr. Lee went from job to job, bettering his livelihood and income, until he finally took a truckloaders' job in Metuchen 13 months ago — employing which now pays him $52 each week. His wife found two domestic positions, now worth $43 a week, and one daughter, having graduated from high school, went to work at Princeton University as a typist. Together, they began making $7,500 per year and their rent shot to $50.50 a month.

"It's a strange situation," Mr. Lee observed. "It's impossible for me to earn a living and keep up my family without others working. The expense of everything has gone up since our income also went up a few dollars. I understand why the Housing Authority must maintain certain rules and regulations, but we try to live like Christian people and I feel there should be loopholes in the laws to cover emergencies like ours. Such strict laws exist in countries under bondage, but it shouldn't be the case here."

No Immediate Solution. Mr. Lee said he is well aware of the long list of "lower income" families waiting to get into the Hagenman project. But he pointed out that it is not going to make much sense for him to move out — probably into poorer accommodations — just to solve the housing problem of another family. Solution of one problem, then, will merely lead to the creation of another. The Lee's dilemma cannot be solved by moving very far from Princeton, Mr. Lee stressed, since such a move would mean the loss of current jobs for his wife and daughter. Anyhow, he added, they have come to enjoy the Princeton community, have made many friends here and have no desire to shift suddenly to another town.

Sympathizing with the confused family, Mr. French continued with Mr. Lee that his plight — and the plight of many others — is not a question of money, but an acute shortage of housing. He noted that the Housing Authority is making slow-but-sure strides to improve conditions, despite opposition to its efforts, and is hopeful of performing great good in the long run. He saw no immediate solution, however. As Saturday grew close, the Lees saw no answer to their problem — a vital problem to any family facing similar prospects. And, as the Lees' problem added another sore spot to the "blighted" area's ailing body, Princetonians were reminded once again that some cure must be found soon. Yet, no one seemed ready to say what or when it will be.

Housing Study Approved. The Borough Housing Authority's long-standing application for a preliminary Federal loan to study the possibilities of building 50 additional low-rent housing units was reaffirmed Friday by Mayor and Council at a special meeting. The Housing Authority's original request for such funding was approved by the governing body some four years ago.

Reiterated in view of the cloud-generating Urban Renewal plans now being formulated and studied by the Housing Authority, Friday's resolution was general in nature, contained no specifics as to possible locations and amounted to the Borough Father's endorsement of the goal of a "decent home in a suitable living environment for all of its citizens."

The need for such housing, that in accordance with the terms of the U. S. Housing Act of 1937 must be documented by local governing authority, is reflected in the 83 "verified applications" currently on file with the Housing Authority's Executive Director, Bruce H. French. Mr. French pointed out that 125 applications have been received but that to date only 83 have been verified in all details.

In reply to questions pertaining to housing needs, Authority Chairman David S. Lloyd, a member of the Authority since its organization, tersely summarized the somewhat paradoxical position in which he and the five other unsalaried members now find themselves. "Years ago," he said, "we were severely criticized for not doing enough; now we're damned for trying to do too much."

Death on a Summer Day. An hour after the sun rose on the morning of June 22, Tenacre Foundation, a nursing home for Christian Scientists centered in a 22-acre tract along The Great Road, experienced a bizarre and tragic chain of events. The cost was five lives.

At 6:30 a.m., Miss Lillian E. Benson, 58, of Denton, Texas, was found by a nurse dead in her room with the cord from a venetian blind wrapped around her neck. A note was found indicating the case was suicide.

At 7:05 a.m., Superintendent J. Burwell Harrison was telephoning Township Police Chief James Campbell, Jr. to report the death when a kitchen worker saw flames shooting out of South Hall, the one-story row of connecting frame cottages in which a number of the mental patients were housed. Having concluded his report to Chief Campbell with a request for police, Mr. Harrison shouted into the telephone, "You better send the fire department, too."

At approximately 7:18 a.m., Princeton's three volunteer companies arrived on the scene. Fireman William Whately brought Miss Cora L. Reed, 77, of New York, out of one of the burning buildings and the First Aid Unit ambulance rushed her to Princeton Hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation.

Shortly before 8 a.m., the fire had been brought under control. —Continued on Page 8

News of the Theatres

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

"Joan" Bows. The University Players opened up with "Saint Joan", this corner's choice for the most wonderful play written so far in this century. The triumphant G. B. Shaw play remains on view at the Murray through this Saturday evening.

"Saint Joan" triumphs in this case over a production that is frankly disappointing in a number of aspects. But the work of art is so intrinsically lovely that it's impossible to destroy it.

Shaw's great powers enable him to be extremely funny just at the moment he is being most serious. The Players' production failed to make the most of the fact that "Saint Joan" is tragi-comedy, but "Saint Joan" can even be wonderful when the humor is slighted.

However, to use one of the important images in the work,
"Saint Joan" needs to "fly". Most of the time on opening night it seemed stuck all too firmly on the ground. The Players appeared to be intelligent in their efforts, but the strength that comes from deep understanding of the lines was missing.

Shaw specifically states that the characters have an important symbolic status and this can be brought to life without harming the dramatic qualities. For instance, the Inquisitor's long speech in the courtroom must be said with this in mind in order to make it genuinely coherent.

Georgine Hall in the title role cast an appealing aura over the production, but it is not enough.
As staggering a challenge as the role is, it requires a sense of freedom of the spirit on top of all the other demands. Had Mrs. Hall been able to get the part truly off the ground, she might have pulled the whole production with her. Her Joan is an important achievement, but greatness is needed.

Of the other roles, Chiz Schultz
as the Dauphin, Joe Bird as Warwick and Mario Siletti as Captain La Hire seemed the most fully realized. But if the State was fairly successful, the Church simply was not. This is what comes closest to genuine harm in the production, because the Church and its point of view must be made understandable.

The performers were diligent about pacing, but on occasion the speed worked against understanding and emphasis. If you are going to see a play that was written to take three and a half hours in production, you are really there for the evening and the play should be done for complete understanding. Incidentally, the cuts didn't seem worth it, for the same reason.

Physically, the Players' production was on a par with the standards of the preceding season. Jerry Raibourn's set was fine and the costumes were superb (and mightily expensive, you can be sure). The lighting could have been more effective, though.

But regardless of the points of disagreement expressed above, you should see "Saint Joan". Mr.
Shaw's play shines through at every moment.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Charles "Chiz" Schultz, a familiar face to Princeton theatregoers after his performances with the University Players two years ago and the Theatre Intime and Triangle Club, will return for a second week on the Murray boards as the start of "Charlie's Aunt."

The play, called "the dean of farces," dates back to 1892, when it was written by Brandon Thomas and performed with "high hopes and second-hand scenery."
Since then it has proved a vehicle for many years, including

Jack Benny and Jose Ferrer, while the musical version, starring Ray Bolger, was a Broadway hit.

Schultz will play Charlie and his aunt in the comedy, which revolves around a case of mistaken identity. Currently being seen in the role of the Dauphin in "St. Joan," he is an associate producer with "Studio One" for CBS in New York.

Playing the female leads opposite him are Lelia Barry and Mary Gonzales. Miss Barry appeared in many of the 1954 Players' productions, while Mrs. Gonzales is familiar through her work in both Intime and Community Players.

Mike Kesdekian will handle direction of the farce, while Jerry Raibourn will do the sets and lighting. Tickets for the production are on sale at Bamberger's and the theatre (3539).

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

"Tea and Sympathy," one of the strongest plays by the new group of leading American playwrights, will open on Monday (July 2) for a run of two weeks at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. "The World of Sholem Aleichem" is the current tenant, running through this Saturday evening with Howard Da Silva and Jerome Cowan starred.

Robert Anderson's "Tea and Sympathy" achieved a run of 709 performances on Broadway, plus a good road tour. Robert Caldwell, who directed Linda Darnell in the national company, is performing the same task in New Hope.

The role first created by Deborah Kerr is being taken next week by Mary Sinclair, who starred in the title role of "Anastasia" a few weeks ago at the Playhouse. She portrays the wife of a boarding school "master" who brings a young student to a realization of his manhood and of his own worth.

John Lehne will return to the New Hope theatre after a year's absence to create the role of the boy, filled on Broadway by John Kerr. He has appeared with Miss Darnell in the road version and will rejoin the company for performances later this summer.

The cast will also see Mr. DaSilva as the house master and Mr. Cowan as the boy's father. Both are longtime veterans of the New Hope stage in addition to their many achievements on Broadway and in films.

MUSIC CIRCUS

"The King and I" wraps up its four-week run, longest in the history of the Lambertville Music

AT NEW HOPE: Mary Sinclair has a leading role in "Tea and Sympathy," opening Monday at the Bucks County Playhouse.

Circus, this Sunday evening. Producer St. John Terrell's innovations include a "twilight performance" at 6 on Saturdays, followed by the evening show at 9:30.

Alfred Cibelli and Idene Manning head the cast for the highly regarded Rodgers and Hammerstein musical play. "Plan and Fancy" is the next entrant at Lambertville.

The Harder They Fall (June 28-30) is the movie adoption of a Budd Schulberg novel on the horrors of professional boxing, and while it has power as a dramatic presentation, even the author has admitted that the message is a little harsh. Featured in the film, which tells the story of a Primo Carnera - esque character, are Humphrey Bogart, as his press agent, and Rod Steiger, as the manager of the syndicate which owns the fighter, and they are both excellent. A pair of former champions, Max Baer and Jersey Joe Walcott, also take a hand in the proceedings.

Safari (July 1-3) is a rather tepid African saga performed lackadaisically by two rather tired pros of the "picture game," Victor Mature and Janet Leigh. Mature is the white hunter whose family has been killed by the Mau Mau, while Miss Leigh is the fiancée of his employer (who conveniently gets killed). Many beasts and natives are slaughtered before boy gets girl, but the full portion of action never bails out the weak story.

Trapeze (July 4-10) is a typical Hollywood mingling of sex and sawdust, with Gina Lollobrigida providing the former and a small Paris circus the latter. The plot revolves around a "triple," a complicated aerial performance which the old "pro" of trapeze artistry, Burt Lancaster, is teaching to the young tyro, Tony Curtis, and the triangle which they form around the shapely Italian star. At the finale, one gets the girl while the other gets a better job, so presumably the movie muse is satisfied.

THE GARDEN

Goodbye My Lady (June 28-30) is in the main a picture for the Alfred Payson Terhune set, tracing the story of a boy (Brandon de Wilde) and the dog which he finds and later has to return to his owner. There is some excellent footage shot in Louisiana, and the picture, while slow-moving, will be enjoyable for all but especially for the younger audience. Walter Brennan, as the boy's uncle, and Phil Harris, as a friendly store-keeper, both do excellent jobs.

The Garden will close for the summer after Saturday's performance. It will reopen early in September.

Schiaparelli, the Marmalade. Bathing suits at The French Shop this year come from the drawing board of Mme. Schiaparelli, and while some of them may never see a diving board, they will make practically anyone look like a marmalade.

Scrolls of embroidery cover one suit of pure linen. The same embroidery pattern has been used on another suit that looks like a fine sateen. The plunging neckline of a black suit turn out to be modest after all: it's lined

For a Bird: A Gilded Cage

Courboisier himself might have designed the new bird-cages at the Pet Shop, Henderson Avenue. No longer does a bird in a contemporary house have to live in a 1920-style cage; wait 'till you see these modern ones.

Most effective in the new collection is a cage designed to hang in the corner of a room. The two sides away from the walls are the usual brass rods. The top, of brushed gold paint, slants up in a point from the wall to give the bird about two feet of height in the front part of the cage.

Another cage also has a slanted, chicken-coop roof. Its front is rectangular, but its sides are so joined to roof and floor that no two borders are parallel. These two cages cost $18.20 each.

A brass rod cage, like a box, stands on a black matte metal tray that extends out beyond the bird-cage to provide a platform for a trailing vine. Behind bird and vine there is a big slant-cut piece of metal in copper, gold, or white. The set is $12.85 for copper, $10 for each of the others.

with flesh-colored cotton. Black laces criss-cross over the pink.

Not all the suits at the 20 Nassau shop come from Schiaparelli. Sea Glamour is responsible for a $10 suit in blue print with a darning skirt over its pant legs. A red latex suit has a red and white top, and a brown one is sun-spotted with polka dots.

After you've dried off a bit, there's a collection of dresses called "Swiss-ette." Those of you who like Lenz dresses will respond to these. The prices are lower—$14.95 or so—but the designs are very similar. One, for example, is a navy and white print banded with white rickrack and cut in girlish, peasant lines.

A yellow Swiss-ette has very small-change coin dots. Rick-rack trims the neck and small shoulder straps, and bands the skirt. An underskirt holds it out to country-girl fullness.

If a jacket dress belongs in your summer closet, consider one in white and pink vertical stripes (yellow, also). The pink (yellow) jacket buttons onto six pearl buttons that decorate the waist of the dress. A simple white dress is made of a jacquard fabric. The whiteness is relieved by a red pield belt.

City Slicker, Slicker boots. You wear them with slickers what else? Frolic and unimaginative people might call them galoshes, or just plain boots, but the Keds designers prefer the "slicker" label because the boots are especially colored to match a raincoat.

Bright yellow, white, red, blue—the boots are made of a ribbed vinyl topped with a half-inch band of corduroy. White boots have black, yellow has yellow, and so on. Two buckles at the ankle insure a good fit and prevent loss of boot in puddle. Slicker boots are priced at $3.95 at Hult's, 140 Nassau Street, and are sized for children, growing girls and women.

Particular ladies who wear chino shorts and find it difficult to match them with shoes, may now rest at ease. Hult's has some classic sneakers in sand - beige - chamois - whatever color you chose to call it. They also come in charcoal grey, and a new clear light blue that is quite different from the faded blue of a denim sneaker.

Water off a Duck. This particular duck does not shed water, he absorbs. We encountered him at Stuff 'N' Monseuse where he is in dry-dock at the moment. He is about five feet long, made out of a yard-wide width of terry cloth—bright yellow.

The terry has been sewn to a quilted piece of denim (outside) and terry (inside) so that the duck is really a snug little bag for a child to shiver into after he's been in the ocean. Duck has a big head made of plastic foam that is soft and inviting, in case the occupant wants to take a snooze. The orange beak is shiny plastic and so are the web feet. Duck-O is washable, $18.95.

A companion to the duck is a tiger made of corduroy instead of terry cloth. You could probably take him to the beach, too, but he's really happier in front of a television set. The Mouseketeer rests his head on the tiger's head until the program's over. Tiger is a washable $14.95.

The toy shop at 10 Moore Street will be closed from July 2 to July 16, so you'd better bag your duck soon.

trol with ten rooms in South Hall either partially burned or totally gutted. The bodies of Mrs. Ellen Huggert, 81, of New Orleans, and Miss Eleanor Sampson, 49, of Boston, were found.

At 8:15 a.m. the body of Mrs. Bess Meyer of Philadelphia was found, raising the number of victims in the fire to three. All of them were still in bed.

Throughout the day, police, fire officials, members of the county prosecutor's staff, reporters and photographers were active at Tenacre, checking all available facts in an effort to ascertain exactly what had occurred. Late in the afternoon, Miss Mildred Waters, 29, of Rocky Hill, Conn., who had been admitted to the mental wing less than 12 hours before the fire broke out, told police how the tragedy had occurred.

"I was smoking a cigarette" (chained by Tenacre regulations but secreted by the patient on her admittance Thursday night), police quoted her as saying. "Then I decided to set fire to the curtains for excitement."

Friday night, Paul R. Chesbro, borough magistrate, substituting in Township Hall for Magistrate Louis R. Gerber, arraigned Miss Waters on a charge of arson. The defendant was virtually inarticulate when asked by Magistrate Chesbro if she understood the charge but the nurse in attendance told him she was "probably unaware of what was going on." Transfer to the Mercer County Jail of the defendant was followed by admission to the New Jersey State Hospital in Trenton.

Sunday at 6:45 p.m., Miss Reed died in Princeton Hospital of the effects of the smoke she had inhaled. The death toll stood at five.

The 28-year old building which burned so quickly (Fire Chief George Cahill reported "it went up like an ammunition dump") was scheduled for demolition and replacement in the near future, Mr. Harrison told reporters on the scene. A master plan for the expansion of Tenacre (which is operated for Christian Scientists but has no official connection with the church) is being studied with an architectural firm, so that the buildings lost to the flames may be restored.

For two views on the aftermath of the tragedy, see pages 1 and 15. A picture of the burned-out building is on page 13.

Girl Saved From Drowning. Heads-up chain-reaction efforts by at least a dozen persons Tuesday afternoon resulted in a dramatic life-or-death story with a happy ending. Saved from drowning in a private swimming pool at 117 Mercer Street was 21-year-old Josephine Wolf, a child's nurse from Cedarhurst, Long Island.

Miss Wolf's haunting experience began shortly after lunch while she and Miss Julia Somerville, another nurse, were relaxing in the pool on the property of their employer, Roland T. Ely, whose four children were asleep inside. Miss Wolf suddenly developed stomach cramps, then disappeared under 15 feet of water at the deep end of the pool.

Realizing she was unable to aid her stricken companion, the elderly Miss Somerville ran inside the Ely home. She explained the situation hurriedly to her sister, Mrs. Mattie Smith, the Ely's cook, and Mrs. Alice Bjorholm, a third nurse. Mrs. Smith immediately sought help on Mercer Street while Mrs. Bjorholm summoned Borough police by phone.

Fortunately, three fire surgeons, working on a job for John Shearer nearby, responded to Mrs. Smith's urgent plea and were responsible for saving Miss Wolf's life. One of them, Richard Price of Trenton, dove for the victim and pulled her to the pool's edge after frantically removing his long-lashed boots. The other two, Allison Reedy of Trenton, and Addison Driver of Pennington, applied artificial respiration until members of the police force and First Aid Rescue Squad arrived.

HANDSHAKE BINDS MERGER: George R. Cook 3d (left), president of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, and Edward U. Hill, president of The Hopewell National Bank, signify completion of plans to have the latter institution become the Hopewell Branch of Princeton Bank and Trust Company. For further details, see Topics of the Town.

Miss Wolf, under water for approximately five minutes, was still unconscious when Lt. Frank Bird and Patrolman Douglas Watson, on radar duty a short distance away, reached the scene. Patrolman Stanley Donald arrived in a third Borough car moments before Chief John Smith, Borough Clerk Robert Mooney and Health Officer David Blake hurried over from Borough Hall and Township Patrolmen Richard Steiner and John Seeley appeared from duty further down Mercer.

Those on hand was busy administering artificial respiration and forcing considerable water from the victim's lungs when Albert Toto and DeWitt Boice of the First Aid Rescue Squad arrived with oxygen, less than five minutes after Miss Somerville started the prompt chain-reaction. They succeeded in reviving Miss Wolf and bringing back her normal coloring before taking her by ambulance to Princeton Hospital, where she was held overnight as a precautionary measure.

Banks Merge. Stockholders of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company and the Hopewell National Bank have approved plans to merge the two banks. The Hopewell National Bank's name will be changed to the Hopewell Branch of Princeton Bank and Trust Company.

The merger requires no action by either Princeton or Hopewell customers. Accounts need not be changed and present pass-books, checks and other forms may continue to be used while they last.

The merged bank will have the largest lending limit in Mercer County, exclusive of some Trenton banks. The branches at Hopewell, Princeton and the Princeton Shopping Center may be used interchangeably by all customers.

Beginning Sunday, Princeton customers will receive an increase in the rate paid on savings deposits to 2% per annum on all balances over $5, a policy recently adopted by Hopewell. For the first time, there will be available to Hopewell customers such services as "no minimum balance" checking accounts and 2½% Savings Certificates.

Fireworks at Stadium. Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, will hold its annual July 4 program Wednesday at Palmer Stadium for the first time since 1952.

Among the many special sets the Iorio Fireworks Company of Flemington will display are the Eiffel Tower, Trip to the Moon.

Modern Warfare, Pyroplane, Dazzling Caprice, The Golden Niagara Bombshell, Comedy Number and Northern Lights. Another feature of the event will be vocal selections by Miss Marion Tamasi.

Paul Assenheimer, who has studied at the Westminster Choir College and is a member of Post 76, will sing the national anthem. Admission will be 75 cents, with children under 12 admitted free.

Mower Accident Painful, Richard B. Whitney, 34 Greenhouse Drive, was reported in "good condition" and "improving" at Princeton Hospital this week following a rotary mower mishap which came close to cutting off a portion of his left foot. Attendees said the victim must keep his injured limb elevated in the hospital until the extreme pain diminishes, then must spend six weeks on crutches.

According to Mrs. Whitney, who was inside the Whitney home when the accident occurred last week end, her husband pushed the large-size mower into an area of heavy weeds and it got caught on some vines. When he pulled back hard to release the cutter, it sprang loose suddenly, moved with considerable force and hit his foot, splitting the bone down the side of his first three toes.

Dr. David B. Miller, who reached the scene of the accident in less than five minutes and performed surgery after a quick ride to the hospital, said he expected Mr. Whitney to experience no permanent injury as a result of the painful cut. Coincidentally, Dr. Miller was in attendance at University of Pennsylvania Hospital several years ago when baseball pitcher Curt Simmons underwent surgery after a similar rotary mower accident—a new-story accident which cost the hurler a few toes and the Philadelphia Phillies more than a few ball games.

Allen's to Expand, Allen's Children's Shop at 124 Nassau Street has begun construction of a large L-shape addition at the back of the present store. The 42x36 air-conditioned addition is being built by Tower Construction Co. and is planned for September opening. The expansion will provide twice the existing selling space for the store and will be used primarily for greater display of juvenile furniture and toys. Space on the second floor will be used for stock when it is vacated by the Eagles, who are still searching for a new meeting place.

Justice Prevails, Although James Vaughn, 70 Clay Street, insisted on entering a guilty plea when charged with careless driving in Municipal Court this week, Magistrate Paul R. Chesbro indicated a change in plea to innocent after hearing the facts of the case. The matter was dismissed without costing the defendant a dime, thanks to the testimony of Sgt. Charles J. Anderson, investigating officer, and the careful consideration of the magistrate.

In other action, Magistrate Chesbro imposed the following fines: Theodore Mort, Day Road, Flemington, $25 and 90-day license revocation for careless driving; A. D. Sedner, Monmouth, $25 for speeding; Bevis Lengstetter, 25 Palmer Square, $15 for speeding and $12 for "stop" sign violation; and Mrs. Jeanne Schlesinger, 233 Nassau Street, and Mrs. Anne P. Kingsford, Elmridge Road, $12 each for "stop" sign violation.

Rotary Scholarship Winner, Charles A. Alden, president of the student council at Princeton High School during the past year, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Princeton Rotary Club. He will enter Syracuse University in the fall.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Alden of 19 Craven Lane, Lawrenceville, Mr. Alden is the third winner of the Rotary Club award, given annually to an outstanding member of the graduating class of a secondary school located in the Princeton area. Last year's winner was George Toole, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Toole of 41 Charlton Street, who is now at Trenton State Teachers College. —Continued on Page 13

TIME TO BEAT THE HEAT: When the thermometer starts making its way toward 80 plus degrees, accompanied by New Jersey's famed humidity, Richard K. Edwards starts figuring how to get away from it all. Here, as the temperature rises at mid-day, he ponders the problem and years for the comfort of his room, where a big fan and a bigger drink are all he needs for cooling-off purposes. For other beat-the-heat ideas, read Question of the Week below. (Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: How much do you mind the heat, and what do you do to beat it?

Location: Palmer Square.

Richard K. Edwards, 366 Nassau Street, shop owner: I'd sooner have hot weather any day of the week than cold. It doesn't really bother me until it gets up around 92 degrees, where it almost is today. I have a big fan in my room, so, when the weather's good and hot, I sit in front of that, watch TV and drink a couple of long, cool drinks.

Mrs. Sumner Rufen-Miller, 6 Newbu, Road, housewife: I don't mind the heat too much. I just re-organize my day to beat it. I get up earlier, then rest in the middle of the day when it's hottest. Any of the work I should be doing I do at each end of the day. John Bellamy, Milltown, office worker: I mind it very much because I can't take it very well. With air-conditioning at home and work, I try not to spend much time anywhere else. I like the cooler weather better—and how!

Ted White, 123 John Street, usher at Princeton Playhouse: Well, I don't have to do anything to beat it because it doesn't bother me. For people who are bothered, I think they should stay underweight. It's cool for me where I work—I'm always sneezing in there. The air conditioning is new and, for someone in the theater for longer than two hours, it's almost too terrific.

Mrs. Lillie Trotman, 30 Lytle Street, domestic worker: I don't mind the heat. In fact, I prefer it over winter weather. I guess I'm not used to the cold. I came here from North Carolina 12 years ago and I'm still not used to it. But I've made my home here, so I've got to stay, cold or not.

Davis Young, Lawrenceville, Princeton High students: The heat doesn't affect me too much, though I enjoy sleeping out on our screened-in porch on summer nights. To keep comfortable, I'm working in an air conditioned store—Langrocks, if you don't mind the free plug. But, as I said, heat doesn't bother me and I play golf instead of swimming, whether it's 110 or 60. Last time out, the heat must have helped—I shot a 38 for nine holes.

Kermil Rolland, 134 Nassau Street, business consultant: I escape it because it doesn't bother me. I'm strictly a cold-weather man. During the summer, I commute to and from Tom's River to beat the heat—often on a daily basis.

Mrs. Violet Baughman, Griggstown, door-to-door saleswoman: This heat wave is milder! I've got to stay out in it to earn a living, but it's so hot that I linger whenever I get a foot in the door of a cool home. It looks like I'm not going to live well this summer, if my present rate of sales continue. I wish I had some sort of talent that would make an indoor job possible.

SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY: Early-morning fire, listed by police as arson, claimed four victims Friday at the Tenacre Foundation. Three women died on the scene of suffocation from smoke, and a fourth succumbed two days later in Princeton Hospital. For further details of the $100,000 blaze, worst in the community's history when measured in terms of loss of life, see page 4. (Richards Photo.)

Playgrounds Open Monday. The Princeton summer playgrounds will begin their annual eight-week season Monday. Playgrounds will be open from 9:30 to 5 Monday through Friday until August 24.

Facilities include slides, seesaws, swings, sand boxes as well as wading pools. The wading pools will be open from 1 to 5, Monday through Friday, weather permitting.

Games will include softball, quoits, horseshoes, zel ball, ping pong, track events, circle games and quiet games. Other activities during the summer offer many special contests, tournaments and shows. Among them will be pet shows, hobby exhibits, doll contests, dress-up contests, bicycle decoration contests, treasure hunts and many other events.

In his 11th year as summer recreation director, C. Edward Christian will be assisted by William Evans, Robert Sinkler, James Briner, Miss Priscilla Cortelyou, Mrs. Mary B. Moss, Miss Jessie Hurd, Mrs. Anna Lanahan, Pat Tidey, Mrs. Dorothy Kahl and Miss Margaretta J. Barr.

The Community Playgrounds and wading pools will be open July 4 with all staff members on duty. The Playgrounds Committee hopes to have parents visit the recreation area on the holiday.

Children under 6 are not permitted to attend the playgrounds unless accompanied by an older person who will be responsible for them.

Lions Delegates. Fred L. Creager and Chester A. Page, both of Washington Road, Penns Neck, have been named by the Princeton Lions Club as delegates to the 39th annual Convention of Lions International. The meeting is being held in Miami, Fla., through Saturday.

Mr. Creager will receive a five-year 100% attendance pin this year, while Mr. Page will have completed 19 years' 100% attendance. Both men are past presidents of the Princeton Lions Club, and Mr. Page is past Deputy District Governor.

P.T.A. Scholarships. The Princeton High School Parent-Teacher Association has awarded a total of $1850 to nine deserving graduates of the high school who will be entering college this fall.

The grants were made to students of "great promise of future achievement and service" who had shown character, leadership and citizenship. Money for the grants was raised by the P.T.A.'s magazine subscription sales campaign.

John R. Grantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gantz, 25 Blackwell Avenue, Hopewell, received a $250 award for a student in the college preparatory course. He will enter the General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich.

Miss Lorelei Fugill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fugill, 59 Moran Avenue, received a $250 grant to aid her at Goucher College in the fall. She was enrolled in the college preparatory course.

Earl Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl K. Jones, Carter Road, received a grant of $200 to help him at Trenton Junior College. Miss Juanita Smith, 19 Olden Lane, was awarded $200 for her studies at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania.

Grants of $150 were made to Miss Marilyn Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wallace, Herrontown Road, and John Stokes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Stokes, R. D. 1. She will attend Whittier College, Calif., while he will study at the Westminster Choir College.

Miss Jewell Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kennedy, 129 Birch Avenue, received a scholarship of $100 with an added grant of $100 for her studies in the business education course. She will attend Green Mountain Junior College, Vt.

Miss Dorothy Stalker, who will attend Goucher College, received a $250 grant as a student entering the teacher training course. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stalker, 50 Hawthorne Avenue.

Miss Maureen Duffy, daughter of Mrs. Veronica Duffy, 44 Wiggins Street, received a $200 scholarship to begin her teacher-training. She will be a student at Trenton State Teacher's College.

Four on Honors List. Two hundred and fifty-five newly-graduated Princeton seniors have received academic honors from the university. This represents nearly 39% of those who received bachelor degrees.

Regiments of Highlanders, Black Watch and even cowboys and Indians have invaded Stuff 'N Nonsense from the toy factories of West Germany and England. The figures are two inches high, made of an unbreakable substance and priced at four for $1.50 (four for $2, if they are in action poses.)

Well, it's time to think again about amusing small travelers, and for that travel vettigo, a trip to Stuff and Nonsense is better than Mothersills.

How about Switzerland's miniature jig-saw puzzles? Some are in little match boxes, some are in a mesh bag (these are surprise puzzles: no picture to guide you) others are assembled, for you to break apart and re-assemble into a picture about two by four inches.

Eager Weavers is a nine by 12-inch weaving hook, of spirally bound plastic sheets cut into strips for warp. Separate wool strips come with the hook. Because of the plastic and the spiral binding you can pull out a completely woven page, then press it back in again. Costs $2.

Stitch in Time, a similar busy-hands project, is a transparent, perforated plastic sheet. Lay it over any picture or design and sew through the holes with colored plastic cord.

Travel Hamper contains 18 necessities for a baby doll who is out to see the world: bottles, brushes, formula equipment, and so on for $2.

Back yard vacationers may pour tea from a set of Japanese china—yes, china—with a pine tree design. Service for four, with pot, sugar and creamer, is $1.50. The very smallest dolls can use a little plastic set with saucers no bigger than a nickel and a teapot about the size of a thimble.

Brew the tea on a five-inch-tall lead stove from England. It has an over that opens, two burners (one glowing "hot"), a shelf above for pots and pans, and a teapot, saucepans and a skillet. Looks so British you expect a kidney pie to pop out of the oven.

Eighteen graduates received highest honors, while 76 others received high honors and 161 honors. The designation is given for excellent work in their field of academic specialization.

Princeton residents receiving notice include Robert M. Laughlin, Drakes Corner Road, honors in English; Bevis Longstreth Jr., 25 Palmer Square, honors in Engineering; George B. Thomas, Elm Road, high honors in English; and T. Cuyler Young Jr.,

Rosedale Road, honors in Oriental Studies.

Four RCA Scientists Honored. Four scientists on the staff of the David Sarnoff Research Center of R.C.A. have been elected, Fellows of the American Physical Society. The election is based on independent research contributing to the further knowledge of science. The men are Richard H. Bube, Mountainview Road, Belle Mead; and Princetonians Frank Herman, 200 Harrison Street; Arnold R. Moore, 61 Random Road; and Leon S. Nergaard, 11 Rollingmead.

Ammerman Wins Scholarship. Lee K. Ammerman, 41 Gulick Road, a recent graduate of Princeton High School, has received the Upson Memorial Scholarship to Rutgers University.

The scholarship, which covers full tuition for four years, was established in memory of the late Irving S. Upson, of the Class of 1881. Ammerman, who plans to study for a teaching career, was president of the school athletic association, a member of the student council and the baseball, basketball and football teams.

Graham Named Ford Aide. George A. Graham, member and former chairman of Princeton University's Department of Politics, has been appointed Director of the Ford Foundation's Public Affairs Program.

A graduate of Monmouth College with a Ph. D. from the University of Illinois, Dr. Graham joined the Princeton faculty in 1930. He has also served with the Hoover Commission and as a consultant to the Senate Subcommittee on ethics in government.

"Beat the Heat." The Town Club will hold its regular "Beat the Heat" dance on Bamberger's roof Friday at 8:30 p. m. In the event of rain, the event will be held in July.

Robert Pressley and Edward Ansell are co-chairmen of the event. They have announced that there will be elevator service to the roof terrace and that refreshments will be served.

Rochester Graduate. Miss Nancy Bedford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Bedford, 173 Jefferson Road, has graduated from Rochester University with a bachelor degree in economics.

Miss Bedford is a member of Theta Eta, a social sorority. She also served last year as secretary of the economics and business administration club.

University Appoints. Nine scholars, including one Princeton resident, have been appointed to the Princeton University Faculty, Dr. Harold W. Dodds has announced. They include a professor, two associate professors and six assistant professors.

Dr. Forman S. Acton, a research assistant at Princeton since 1952, has been appointed an associate professor in the Department of Electrical Engineering. He received his bachelor's degree from Princeton in 1943 and his doctorate from Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Dr. Robert M. Drake, at present affiliated with General Electric Company, has been named Professor of Mechanical Engineering. The second associate professor is Professor Francis J. Ancombe, formerly of Cambridge University, who will enter the Department of Mathematics.

New assistant professors in the Department of Geology include Dr. Alfred J. Fischer and Dr. Jorma O. Kalliooski, while Dr. Robert D. Allen will enter the Department of Biology. Dr. Frederick W. Mote has been appointed to the Department of Oriental Studies, while Werner Schmid will teach in the Department of —Continued on Page 18

IT'S COOL, MAN, COOL: A familiar sidewalk sight — the old-fashioned lemonade stand (in this instance, grapeade) with old-fashioned prices ranging from 2 cents up — was much in evidence all over Princeton this week. It was a sure sign of summer's muggy arrival. The lais above were smiling as the photo was taken, but at odd moments later when they discovered that proceeds were not large enough for so many proprietors. David Hill (left) was holding the change container at last report, pursued closely by (left to right) Jeff Carter, Bruce Hill, Johnny Tufano and Mike Harrison. (Richards Photo)

Tenacre Investigation Urged.

The following letter to the Princeton Township Committee has been released for publication through Town Topics:

Shortly after one of the patients of the Tenacre Foundation was found wandering in the woods a few weeks ago, I requested information on the status of the Tenacre Foundation from various Township officials; however, no one seemed to know much about the place.

I now feel that in the light of recent events, it is my duty to request the Township Committee to appoint a committee to thoroughly investigate the Tenacre Foundation and among other things to determine its status.

I further request that no building permits be granted the Tenacre Foundation for rebuilding or further expansion until such time as it is determined whether the type of institution that this place may be either does or does not fit into the general scheme of things in Princeton.

Segregation, Discrimination Hit To the Editor of Town Topics:

Not since the public meeting of "Consolidation" have I been so moved about the happenings of Princeton. I have been following the papers, gathering "hear-say," etc. and after what I have read in your paper recently, I would like to write to you and express my views.

It has been a known fact for sometime "downtown" that the "Good Fathers and Citizens" of this town wish to have no more colored families living in this town than is absolutely necessary. It also has been known that there has been a desire to keep any more colored families from coming in and if possible, to get those that are in, out.

If this sounds shocking to some, it is none the less true. With the secrecy of the Planned Development Area, this idea has and is being aired and the people are thinking that this town is now ready to make its move in getting and keeping colored families out of Princeton proper.

Grant that some of the homes in the downtown area could be improved, Grant that some don't have modern facilities. But do the "Good" citizens of Princeton realize that until the war years, 99% of those homes were OWNED by elite people who did nothing to improve them? Do they realize that of the homes that have been bought by the Negroes in this area, over 80% of the new owners had to spend more than they paid for the house to put modern facilities in them and make them into decent looking homes?

Do they stop to think that the home owners in this area who have standard, approved homes are mostly Negro. Do they know that the blighted homes are for the most part homes owned by whites, who will do nothing for their tenants in the way of fixtures, etc.? The people in this area feel that they don't want to spend their money on someone else's house; fix it up and then have the landlord increase the rent. I don't truly think that this has occurred to our Planning Committee.

Then in Princeton you have "restricted" areas. When these areas of housing are developed in the "white" districts, there are agreements among the families that buy in that area, that, if ever one family wants to sell, they will not sell to Negroes.

This is not hear-say. I've been told this by house-sellers because I've asked. I'm the type of person who doesn't like that, "Oh, I didn't know you were colored," or "I've just sold the house" routine. I ask openly whether there are any reasons why the home owner shouldn't or wouldn't sell to Negroes, and this is the answer I get.

Then there are the areas in town where they don't want to tell you openly that Negroes are not wanted in the section, so they put the value of the house so high ($20-40 thousand) that the average colored person cannot hope to even pay the down payment on the house, much less pay the monthly payments. Land is so high that Negroes cannot hope to buy the land and build soon thereafter. Princeton is supposed to be so democratic, but they are not that much so.

I'm not suggesting that you've got to let anybody live next to you. There are some Negroes that I wouldn't want to live next to. There are some white people that I wouldn't want to live next to either. Then there may be some people who feel the same way about me.

But what I am saying is, that a Negro has just as much right to live on Bayard Lane, Snowden Lane, Harrison Street or Nassau Street as a white person if he can afford it. He shouldn't have to be made to feel that he is squeezed into six blocks of the town and if he wants to better himself and move out, it will have to be out of town.

Our "Good" citizens don't know it, but the Negroes of this community are proud of it. They want it to be clean, have no "blighted" areas, just as much as the whites do. They are proud when out-of-town people ask for the Negro section, when they are in the middle of it, because it isn't as obvious as in most towns and cities.

THEIR AIM'S THE SAME: Two crew captains-elect both hope to represent the United States in the Olympics in Australia next fall. At left is John Lapsley, son of Mrs. William D. Lippincott of Arretton Road, who has just been re-elected captain of the Harvard crew after having first received the unusual honor of being named to lead the Crimson as a Junior. At right is Bart Strang, Princeton captain-elect, Lapsley, practicing on Carnegie Lake during the past week, will row in a pair-oared shell at Syracuse, while Strang is in one of Princeton's four-oared entries. Sports in Princeton

P.A.C. Off to Good Start. The Princeton Athletic Club launched its 1956 season with a pair of triumphs that were anything but identical in the manner in which they were achieved. The opener against Montgomery Township was captured when solid defensive play was combined with shut-out pitching for a 2-0 triumph.

In the second affair, played Friday night on Brokaw Field, the P.A.C. fell behind, 3-0, rolled out to a 13-3 lead and then saw its big margin all but erased by a seven-run rally. The fire was finally put out to give the home forces a 13-10 triumph.

Manager Charlie Perpetua tossed a three-hitter at Montgomery to rack up the shutout, flattening in fourth position, Bob Montgomery of the P.A.C. collected half the victors' hits with a pair of doubles, the first of which drove in the only two runs of the evening.

Nick Kovalakides was the first Princeton pitcher Friday night, weathering an opening barrage by South Brunswick that chased three runs across the plate in the top of the second. The P.A.C. then rallied strongly, moving out to a 13-3 advantage with four innings gone.

The visitors battled back in the half of the fifth, pushing seven runs across before Russ Watson, Kovalakides' successor, retired the side. Infield errors made considerable trouble for the two P.A.C. hurlers.

Princeton's pitching strength has been materially bolstered with the addition of Pat Tidy to the squad. A Hun School alumnus who has played varsity ball at Lafayette for two seasons, Tidy is a member of a team that rolled to a 21-1 record this past spring. He is the likely starter Friday.

Perpetua has Alan Ammerman and Robin Foster, the latter now at Harvard, sharing his catching chores. Ammerman and Bobby Cox, the latter a member of Hun School's unbraten 1956 team, have alternated at first, with the pair also seeing action in the outfield. Foster and Bill Rooney are others operating on the outer defense.

Pete Johnson is at second, Bob Montgomery at short and Bill Rodofield at third. Home games are played on Brokaw Field at 6:15 p.m., generally on Friday

Loss, But Still Win

Some 15 Princeton, Midget Leaguers were pleasantly surprised this past week to learn a pair of previously unsuspected facts: (1) Baseball players don't always have to triumph in order to become winners and (2) Magistrates are not to be feared out of court, especially if they're enthusiastic baseball fans.

The boys in question—members of the Cardinals' team, sponsored by the Township Police Pistol Club—were told by Magistrate Louis R. Gerber at the season's start that they would be treated to a Major League game in New York if they took the 1956 Midget League title. The Cards wound up a close second in the National Division, so they naturally figured Magistrate Gerber would use the old cliché, "Wait'll next year."

But the magistrate proved his true Midget League colors by taking the runner-up players out to a roast beef dinner at The Cranbury Inn. The host even brought along special ice cream forms, with "Cards" inscribed on top, and gave a short speech on the importance of competition, win or lose. Then he presented bats to Harry Morton, who sparked the Cards with a .710 average and eight homers, and Al Krüser, "the most improved" player, and a baseball to George Tucker, who pitched every game for the spirited club.

nights. Montgomery Township will be the opponent this Friday, with South Brunswick on hand again next Tuesday evening.

Three Olympic Entries. No less than three Princeton combinations are ready to partake in the Olympic rowing trials at Syracuse this Thursday, Friday and Saturday in an effort to send at least one set of Oxford and Black-tipped oars to Australia next fall. Off the time trials held on Carnegie, following the traditional regatta, Coach Dutch Schoch feels there is a pretty firm chance that Princeton will win at least one of the Olympic berths.

His four-oared shell with coxswain is composed of Al Blaydow, Seymour Cromwell, George Bischof and captain-elect Bart Strang, with Rogers Martin getting the free ride. The latter coxed the jayvees during the past season; Captain Bob Haselkorn is unavailable for Olympic action because of plans to attend Harvard graduate school.

This combination ripped off a 6:47 time trial for the 2,000-meter distance, four-fifths of a second under the Olympic record for the runner, Schoch's boat and entry without coxswain has been timed in 6:38, also highly creditable.

I have heard it said that no matter what goes on in Princeton (racial-wise) that the Negro always knew where he stood, because he was not kept in the dark about events, especially those pertaining to his welfare. Well, they say things change and I guess this is one of those things.

As for Mr. J. P. Wooldridge, I thought in a democracy, no decisions can be made final until they have had public airing. This was the case in Consolidation. The governing body or bodies couldn't decide that the town was to be consolidated and then let the public know that it was. The public had to decide that they wanted consolidation and hear all the pros and cons before it came to a vote.

Surely we need some decent housing in Princeton. Not only in the Planned Area but elsewhere. But you don't decide what to do with people's lives in secret and then tell those people publicly that they have nothing to worry about. That is the time that they must and will worry. No matter what, and no matter how long it takes, nothing that begins in secret, stays secret long.

pair which will have Pete Alsop of nearby Middlebush as coxswain is also set to represent Princeton this weekend on Lake Onondaga.

Baseball Coaches Named. Coaches for this summer's entries in the Junior Baseball League have been announced by B. E. Bergesen, league director. The circuit which will get under way on Wednesday at 1:00 o'clock with a doubleheader on Brokaw Field, is a Red Feather organization that receives a part of its support from the Princeton United Fund and four sponsoring business concerns.

Veteran league coach Bob Sinkler will be back for another season. He is a trainer at Princeton University and the director of the Witherspoon playground.

Another veteran, Jim Brown, is returning to lead a team. Brown played first base for the town team.

Two new coaches, Paul Cuomo and Wilson Coan, will head clubs this year. Cuomo is a graduate of both Princeton High School and Temple University, while Coan is a former Princeton High and Rutgers University athlete.

Three Win in Tennis. Three champions were crowned in the first of the annual Community Tennis Tournaments during the past week. Play will resume Monday, July 9, when the men's singles begin on the University Courts under direction of the Playground Committee.

Nick Charney successfully defended his title in the tournament for boys 15 and under, trimming Allan Tucker with the loss of only a single game in two sets. In the tournament for boys 16 to 18, Charney then lost to John Chandler. The latter, also winning for the second straight season, prevailed by 1-6, 6-2, 6-4.

In the final of the girls' tournament, open to all up to 18 years, Miss Martha Raubinger defeated Miss Virginia Hutton. She also was a defending champion.

Cardinals Set Tryouts. St. Louis Cardinals' scouts will be looking for the Vinegar Bend Mizell of tomorrow at a two-day tryout to be held at Hetzel Field in Trenton Friday and Saturday. The workouts will be open to all hopefuls between the ages of 17 and 23.

Chief scout Joe Mathes has pointed out that Mizell, Ken Boyer and Red Schoendienst are among the major league stars that the Cards discovered at tryout camps.

Each player who reports for the sessions, which will begin daily at 10 a.m., must bring a glove and baseball shoes, Mathes added. All other equipment will be furnished by the Cardinals.

Third Win for P.A.C. The Princeton Athletic Club baseball team strengthened its hold on first place in the Tri-County League Tuesday night with a 6-1 triumph over Princeton Junction. Because the latter's own diamond wasn't in shape, the contest was played on Brokaw Field.

Manager Charlie Perpetua was the starting and winning pitcher, blanking the losers for four innings. Pat Tidey hurled the last two.

The locals were away to a two-run lead in the top of the first as Pete Johnson and Bill Rodefeld scored without the aid of a hit. Two errors, a fielder's choice and a walk sent them around.

P.A.C. did not score again until the final inning, when errors by the Junction nine helped push four more runs across the plate. Bobby Cox with a double, a single and a walk in three trips to the plate paced the victors' attack. Bob Bell drove in Walt Shorten with the Junction nine's lone run in the final inning, but a solid double earlier in the game by Jerry Spacek went to waste.

Civil Engineering. Dr. Fakhry Shehah, a native of Iraq, will take an appointment in the Department of Economics and Sociology.

Three Retire From University. Three professors at Princeton University will retire from the faculty Sunday after serving a total of 95 years. They are Dr. Edmund N. Harvey, Dr. William T. Thom, Jr. and Dean Kenneth H. Condit.

Dr. Harvey is well known as one of the world's leading authorities on bioluminescence, the study of how light may be used as a visible indicator in judging the velocity of biological reactions. Dr. Thom is the former chairman of the department of Geological Engineering.

Dean Condit headed the School of Engineering for 14 years and is chairman of the Department of Mechanical Engineering. Before coming to Princeton in 1910, he was a magazine writer and editor.

Joins Father's Firm. Chester A. Page, Jr. of Washington Road has been named assistant manager of C. Page Fuel Oils, Inc.

A recent graduate of Lehigh University where he majored in Marketing in the School of Business Administration, Mr. Page served on his class cabinet for two years and played varsity lacrosse and hockey. He is an alumnus of Princeton High School.

More Support for Stevenson. The campaign of the New Jersey Stevenson for President Committee progressed over the weekend as more than 50 leaders of industry in the state gathered to hear a closed talk by George F. Kennan, former ambassador to the USSR and co-chairman of the Stevenson group on foreign affairs.

Other Princetonians at the fund-raising luncheon were John P. Poe, president of the First National Bank of Princeton, who called for substantial contributions to the committee to provide a fair hearing for Stevenson on Radio and TV both before and after the nominating convention, and Mrs. Henry D. Smyth, secretary of the state organization.

Arts & Crafts Show. A combination exhibit and demonstration of arts and crafts will be open to the public this Sunday from 3 to 5 at the home of Mrs. Ruth Sharon, 50 Deerpath. The works of 45 Princeton area children and 12 members of an adult ceramics will be shown, along with demonstration teams of children in clay, leather, oil painting, ceramics, basketry, paper mache and copper foil.

The works are the result of a five-month semester of classes under Mrs. Sharon, who holds an M.A. in arts and crafts from NYU. She has taught in the field for the past ten years.

Contest Set for Sunday. The annual Talent and Beauty Contest sponsored by Khufu Temple No. 120, Shriners, and Khufu Court No. 118, Daughters of Isis, will be held Sunday at 1 at the Witherspoon School, Quarry Street. Proceeds benefit the Tuberculosis and Cancer Funds.

Entries have been received from Princeton and six nearby communities, with the winner to represent Khufu Temple at the Shriners' national convention in Washington in August. The national winner receives a four-year college scholarship, with runners-up earning cash prizes.

Miss Ethel Melchoir of Princeton, 1955 winner, will crown this year's champion. Fred B. Goldsborough is illustrious Potentate of Khufu Temple. Among the five judges will be Mrs. John F. Sly and Mrs. Claire Levine of Princeton.

Carnival Plans Made. Rocky Hill Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 is completing arrangements for its 33d annual carnival, to be held July 10-14 in Rocky Hill. It will open nightly at 6:30.

Free dancing and a door prize each evening, plus the usual carnival attractions, are on the program. Admission will be 25c, with children under 12 free.

Mountcastle Graduated. Second Lieutenant Frank E. Mountcastle Jr. of Rosedale Lane has been graduated from the Army's Anti-aircraft Artillery and Guided Missile School at Fort Bliss, Texas.

The 12-week course included training with the radar-controlled Skysweeper gun. A graduate of Princeton University, Class of 1955, Lieutenant Mountcastle entered the Army last February.

Obituaries

Thomas J. Birch, 50, a native of Princeton and long a resident here before he moved to North Carolina, died June 23 in Durham. He was branch manager of a men's wear store in that city.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Margaret Collins Birch, and two daughters, all of Durham; four brothers, William, Foster and Leonard G., all of Princeton; and Hugh, of Rahway.

Funeral services were held at Princeton Cemetery. The Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson of Trinity Episcopal Church officiated.

The Rev. Paul Martin, 94, for three years Princeton University's oldest living alumnus and a resident of 8 Evelyn Place, died June 21 at Princeton Hospital after a short illness. He had lived in Princeton for 50 years.

A graduate of the Princeton Class of 1892, Mr. Martin often told youth that his motto was "keep going — never put the brakes on." Honest and cheerful throughout his life, he kept playing golf until the age of 85.

Born in Ashland, Ky., in 1862, he attended the Piquette School, Princeton University and Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating from the latter in 1886. After two years of study in Germany, he was ordained into the Presbyterian ministry as pastor of the Knox Presbyterian Church, Omaha, Nebraska.

After serving with Omaha and Pallsades, N. Y., churches, he became registrar and clerk of the Synod at Princeton Seminary, holding these positions until his retirement in 1932. He was also a member of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Following his retirement, he was named moderator of the Presbytery of New Brunswick and later chairman of the Princeton Adult School when it was first formed. In 1914, Princeton awarded him an honorary Master of Arts degree, while for nine years he served as a member of the university's Graduate Council.

Mr. Martin is survived by a son, Willard Martin, of North Plainfield; three grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. The funeral was held at the First Presbyterian Church with burial in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Matilda Rynearson of 23 Chestnut Street died June 22. She was the widow of William R. Rynearson.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Charles Salzman, and a brother, Joseph Crusier, both of Princeton. Mrs. Rynearson was a member of Star of Princeton Lodge No. 43, Shepherds of Bethlehem.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, with the Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Florence Day Stevenson died June 23 at her home in New York. She was the widow of Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, who was for a number of years President of Princeton Theological Seminary until his death in 1930.

Surviving are three sons, William E., President of Oberlin College; Donald D., of Perry, Fla.; and Dr. Theodore D. Stevenson of Media, Pa.; a sister and two brothers.

The service was held in Miller Chapel on the Seminary campus. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Russell W. Trippi, 65, of Drakes Corner Road, died June 23 at Bay Shore, Long Island, of a heart attack.

Born in East Orange, he was an executive in the Newark River Works. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hilda Hulse Trippi, and two sons, William of Princeton and Richard H. Trippi of Chillscothe, O.

The funeral was held in Trinity Episcopal Church with the Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

"Hi, there...how've you been?"

No Princeton woman carries jars to the village water fountain but every Princeton woman markets. What the village fountain used to be, the modern supermarket is: a meeting place where housewives can work and talk at the same time.

Who says woman talk is gossip talk? Think of the P. T. A. programs that have been hatched over the egg bin...the chicken supper menus worked out at the chicken counter by a committee of three...the scholarship fund drive that started when a couple of alumnae met at the baby food section...the school board election won by some quiet electioneering at the check-out line...

And at the Princeton Shopping Center it's so convenient to say, "Meet me for a cup of coffee when you're through...let's talk about it some more."

New of the Churches

Joint Presbyterian Services. The three Presbyterian churches in Princeton will again have joint services during the summer. There will be 9:30 and 11:00 a. m. services each Sunday.
The joint services start on Sunday, July 8. During July they will be held in the Second Church and during August in the First Church. The schedule of sermons: July 8, Rev. Dr. George S. May, Jr.; 15, Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson; 22, Rev. Mr. Anderson; 29, Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker; August 5 (Communion), Rev. Dr. Tucker; 12, Rev. Dr. Tucker; 19, Rev. John H. Bodo; 26, Rev. Dr. Bodo; September 2, Rev. Dr. Bodo.

Dress will be informal at the services for comfort during hot weather. Children six and over may attend with their parents. A church-line nursery for children through the age of five will be operated.

Institute Plans Formed. The faculty of Princeton Theological Seminary will again hold its annual summer Institute of Theology, which includes morning Bible hours, elective courses and evening meetings, with outstanding religious leaders joining Seminary faculty members at the instructors.

Full details of the Institute, which will run from July 9 through 19, will be announced next week by Dr. J. Christy Wilson, who is once again in charge of arrangements. Residents of the Princeton area can attend the Institute by paying a $5 registration fee.

Advocates to Gather. The annual ten-day Bible Conference and camp meeting of the New Jersey Conference of Seventh Day Adventists will open on Friday at Camp Kingston, the large "tent city" three miles from Princeton. Hundreds and hundreds of Adventists will join in the fourth annual affair at Kingston. Daily prominent speakers listed for the many day and night sessions. The 57-acre site on Raymond Road is eventually planned to include a summer youth camp, conference headquarters and assembly grounds. In addition to the tents put up each summer, there are permanent facilities such as a dining hall, kitchen, swimming pool, sanitary buildings and Book and Bible House building.

Lutherans Elect. Edward Lind was elected president of the Lutheran Church of the Messiah at the Voters' Assembly. Other officers are John T. Fischer, vice-president; William Lind, secretary; Ira Mounigis, treasurer; Arthur Wagner, finance secretary; William Mollenkopf, spiritual welfare, and Harry Succop, parish education.

Henry Gels, Paul Heller and Harry Succop were elected elders and nine men were named to serve on the Board of Trustees. They are Fred Anderson, Turb Bergman, Otto Froelich, William Graber, Nils Bach, Lloyd Steiner, Cecil Leigh, Arthur Munster, and Henry Schmidt, chairman.

Lawrenceville Topics

Industrial Zoning Passed. The Lawrence Township Committee last week gave final approval to the ordinance which rezones some 800 acres in the Bakers Basin area from rural to heavy industrial land use.

The measure, contemplated for some time, apparently clears the way for location of a large Curtiss-Wright Corporation aircraft plant at the upper end of the township near the Brunswick Pike. The plant, reported under serious consideration by Curtiss-Wright, would be built on 300 acres now owned by Wenzel Title in the new heavy industrial zone.

Leaders of the Greater Trenton Chamber of Commerce and the Mercer County Industrial Commission extolled the committee action as one aiding the growth of the area by presenting a progressive community attitude towards industrial expansion.

It is not known when Curtiss-Wright will make a final decision on its new plant location, but other industries are also reported interested in making use of the newly-rezoned area.

Other Municipal Action. A zoning variance has been granted for the construction of a recreation center on Eggerts Crossing Road. The project, which has the approval of the township recreation committee, would include a pavilion, playground, charcoal oven and grill, basketball court and parking area.

Miss Barbara Ann Roseck has resigned as secretary of the township zoning board of adjustment. She continues as secretary of the planning board.

Lawrence Township Hall and the municipal garage will be painted by Paul Milichuk of Nuttamee, whose $1,500 bid was the lowest among five. Purchase of a generator and a generator for township fire companies has again been postponed for further study.

Lawrenceville Scores in Golf. Lawrenceville School came away from the 20th annual Eastern Interscholastic Private Schools Golf Tourney in Greenwich, Conn., with both the team and individual title.

The team of Charles Reeder (74-74-145), Hal Kuntz (73-73-146), Don Norbury (76-75-149), and Robert Sumner (84-87-171) captured the team title with an aggregate of 111.39 strokes ahead of second-place Peedie. It was the third Lawrenceville victory in the past seven years. Kuntz captured the individual medal play by besting his opponent in the final by 5 and 4. He is the "Junior state" champion in addition.
